

PROJECT NAVODAYA

[A Home for Mentally Disturbed Men]

Navodaya which translates to a 'New Beginning' represents the start of a different life for those men who are considered by the layman as 'MAD'. This residential centre replicates the work which has already begun with women who are suffering from mental illnesses at our centre called 'Vatsalyadham'.

Over the years it came to our notice that it is not only women who suffer the injustice of having no one to take care of them, men too fall in this category especially with regards to people who are suffering from Psychosis. This puts us in a position to look out for the needs and wellbeing of these men.

This new home would provide us the opportunity to accommodate men whose primary needs for nutrition and medication would be attended to and thereafter their rehabilitation into mainstream society which is our long term vision.

This project proposes to accommodate approximately 50 men for which land has already been acquired.
